From Jars to the Stars, winner of the 2011 Colorado Book Award for History, tells the remarkable story of Ball Aerospace - descended from the famed maker of Mason jars - and NASA's Deep Impact comet mission. The book presents an inside look into the backgrounds, characters and motivations of the men and women who create the spacecraft on which the American space program rides.

One of the themes of From Jars to the Stars is the challenge of building spacecraft designed to do things never done before, like Deep Impact's mission. Such efforts are not necessarily financially rewarding: Ball effectively gave up its profit on the program to save Deep Impact during one of the times it was threatened with cancellation.

Although 'From Jars to Stars' chronicles the Deep Impact mission, it could just as well of been written about almost any of the major scientific missions that Ball Aerospace has developed over its 50+ year history. They all have had a similar scientific genesis, development cycle and human joy and sacrifice." Read the whole review here.
